

TEND Lab Member Receives Another Scholarship!

TEND Lab member, Maria Kryza-Lacombe, received a scholarship to attend the International Symposium of Contemplative Studies in San Diego. This preeminent conference on contemplative sciences gather the most innovative thought leaders in the field who share insights and the latest research on mindfulness and other meditative practices. The conference aims to stimulate interdisciplinary discussions, networking, and practices coming together to advance understanding of the mind and human behavior, with the goal of reducing suffering and enhancing well-being. Read more about the conference here. The scholarship reduces the cost of registration from $300 to just $50.

Congratulations, Maria!
